

Reduce single-use plastic

A Seed of Change

Maya was a dreamer, always sketching out grand plans for a greener future. But her ideas often felt like whispers in a storm. - Bernaldo

Then she met Kai, a practical soul with a knack for turning dreams into reality.- Bayotas

Kai was tired of the plastic choking their coastal town. Maya's eyes lit up. "Let's turn this trash into treasure!" she exclaimed.- Abellana

They started small, organizing beach clean-ups and educating locals about recycling. But Maya had a bigger vision. -Macario

She wanted to transform discarded plastic into vibrant, functional art. Kai, initially skeptical, was intrigued.- Iligan

Together, they experimented, melting and molding plastic into colorful mosaics, planters, and even furniture.-Tabada

The community was amazed. Their once-eyesore beach became a vibrant hub, attracting tourists and inspiring others.-Valendez

Their project grew, involving more and more people. Children learned to upcycle, the elderly shared traditional weaving techniques with plastic. and young artists found a new